SAÚDA ALCALDE DE VERÍN GREETINGS FROM THE MAJOR OF VERIN

“Falar de soños e como falar de películas, xa que o cine utiliza a linguaxe dos soños: anos poden pasar en segundos, e pódese saltar dun lugar a outro”. Así definía a linguaxe cinematográfica Federico Fellini, un dos mellores directores da historia do cine.

En Verín entendemos o idioma dos soños: nacemos arroupados polos disfraces, sustentados polas comparsas. Medramos mirando para os escenarios e levamos todos dentro un actor.

Fellini, co seu costumismo e amor polas personaxes, podería perfectamente ter sido de Verín. E falando de soños, quizás algún día, Verín terá o seu propio Fellini, cun “Amarcord” ambientado no Támega, e unha “La dolce vita” en Cabreiroá.

Se iso chega a suceder, non me cabe dúbida de que o Festival Internacional de Curtas de Verín terá algo que ver. Non por nada tamén dixo Fellini que “o único realista de verdade é o visionario”.

*Gerardo Seoane
Alcalde de Verín*

‘Talking about dreams is like talking about movies, since the cinema uses the language of dreams: years can pass in a second and you can hop from one place to another’. This is how Federico Fellini, one of the best film directors in the history of cinema, defined film language.

We understand the language of dreams in Verin. We are born tucked in costumes and held by troupes. We grow up looking at stages and we carry actors inside all of us.

Because of his costumbrismo and his love for the characters, Fellini could have perfectly been born in Verín. And speaking about dreams, it's possible that someday, Verín might have its very own Fellini and some sort of "Amarcord" set in the Tamega river or its own "La dolce vita" set in Cabreiroá.

If this ever happens, there is no doubt in my mind that the Verín International Short Film Festival would have played some part in it. After all, Fellini also said that ‘the visionary is the only true realist’.

Mayor of Verín*

SAÚDA CONCELLEIRA DE CULTURA DE VERÍN

GREETINGS FROM THE CULTURE COUNCILLOR OF VERIN

Dicía Otero Pedrayo que Verín era “unha largacía planura cunha extraordinaria fertilidade”. Foi sempre no senso xeográfico, agrícola e forestal, e segue a serlo áinda máis no eido humano.

A xente de Verín alberga unha imaxinación de extraordinaria fertilidade, somos un pobo creativo e amante das artes. Non temos máis que observar a intensidade cultural da vila, o amor pola escena das nosas compañías de teatro afeccionado e a querencia pola interpretación musical de todos os tipos e entre todas as idades.

O cinema é o xeito de expresión cultural do século XX, prolongada infinitamente neste XXI coa irrupción das novas canles na rede e multiplicadas os seus efectos coas novas tecnoloxías.

E o Festival Internacional de Curtas de Verín é a nosa aposta estrutural por entrar nesta linguaxe, de estar onde están os mellores, as más extraordinarias e fértiles creatividades. Parabéns por participar. Parabéns por avanzar.

*Emilia Somoza
Concelleira de Cultura de Verín*

Otero Pedrayo once said that Verin was ‘a vast plane with extraordinary fertility’. It has always been like this in a geographical, agricultural and forest sense, and this is something that still applies today, even more so in the humane field.

People in Verin are characterized by their extraordinarily fertile imagination. We are a creative community and we love art. We only have to take into consideration the cultural intensity of the village, the way our amateur theatre companies love performing and the appreciation of people of all ages for any kind of music.

Cinema was the way to convey cultural expression in the 20th century. However, this is something that has been deeply extended throughout this 21st century, thanks to the irruption of new online channels and the latest technologies that have successfully multiplied its effect.

Verin International Short Film Festival is our structural bet to access this language, to be where the best in this industry, the most extraordinary and fertile of creativities, are. Congratulations for being part of this. Congratulations for making progress.

*Emilia Somoza
Culture Councillor of Verin*

SAÚDA DIRECTOR FIC VÍA XIV

Cando en 2016 concibimos o Festival Internacional de Curtas (FIC) Vía XIV, tiñamos claro que queríamos contribuír con esta iniciativa a fomentar a creación dunha marca “Verín” que pivotase arredor da cultura como valor diferenciador. Hoxe, só un ano despois do inicio da nosa andadura, chegamos á II edición do Festival con esta premisa cumplida.

En 2017, o FIC internacionalízase e isto supón un importante salto cualitativo en tanto en canto nos permite levar o nome de Verín a moitos lugares da nosa xeografía. Polo tanto, como consecuencia da experiencia adquirida no seu primeiro ano de vida, o noso festival medra e transfórmase. Así, das 39 curtas de cinco países diferentes seleccionados o ano pasado a concurso, pasamos nesta edición a 57 pezas de 21 países.

Xunto a isto, os eixos singulares e diferenciadores do noso Festival seguén presentes nesta edición. Neste sentido, o FIC xirará arredor das mesmas temáticas Entroido, Fronteira e Emigración, tres conceptos moi instalados no imaxinario colectivo verinés. Se ben, percatámonos de que era necesario reorganizar as categorías posto que as de Emigración e Fronteira se solapaban en certa medida. Así nace a categoría Horizontes como representación simbólica desa liña imaxinaria e invisible, lonxana e inalcanzable como metáfora da migración. Por outra banda, o horizonte como liña que separa o aquí do alá, como unha sorte de Fronteira entre onde estamos e calquera outro lugar.

Dada a singularidade do noso territorio, do Val do Támega dividido pola Raia, e da nosa historia de Emigración e Fronteira con todos os seus significados en ambas as beiras, non podía faltar unha categoría galego-portuguesa denominada A Raia. Nela poderase ver unha selección de curtas de cineastas de Galicia e de Portugal. De igual xeito, a sección dedicada ao entroido recibe agora o nome de Outra Mirada e recollerá obras que destrúen as regras cartesianas, que crean espazos alternativos, que experimentan coa linguaxe cinematográfica e que manexan códigos surrealistas e oníricos.

Paralelamente, decidimos crear unha categoría a maiores denominada Nova para dar a posibilidade de concursar a diferentes pezas que non tiñan cabida nas categorías temáticas establecidas. Nesta sección, podemos atopar primeiras obras de autores noveis xunto a películas gañadoras en prestixiosos certames coma o Festival de Cannes ou a Mostra de Venecia. Na súa maioría, son películas que exploran o humano, as relacións familiares, a comunidade ou o amor.

A sección Horizontes aborda temas como os conflitos armados, as migracións forzosas, como as cidades se modelaron a través da inmigración ou como se vive nun territorio ocupado por un exército invasor. Son miradas sinceras onde cabe a beleza e o cotián.

Por outra banda, Outra Mirada reúne películas que exploran o entroido, as mascaradas, os ritos en diversos lugares do mundo e engloba as pezas más libres do festival, en moitas das cales a experimentación formal e narrativa constitúe o centro mesmo da película.

Por último, a sección A Raia, composta por filmes galegos e portugueses, está formada por catro programas, nos que atopamos algunas das mellores películas do ano, xunto a primeiras obras de autores novos cun futuro prometedor.

Xunto ao cartel oficial, desde a organización do FIC Vía XIV afanámonos en configurar un completo programa de actividades paralelas para todos os públicos, que incluirá obradoiros de cine, programación de ciclos temáticos e retrospectivas, e foros e mesas de debate, entre outras. A finalidade última é a de achegar a cultura do cine a todas as persoas participantes nas diversas actividades, xa sexan de Verín ou visitantes.

Por último, gustaríame agradecer especialmente a implicación do Concello de Verín como forza motriz do FIC Vía XIV e tamén a de todos os municipios limítrofes, institucións, organismos e empresas colaboradoras, sin cuxa cooperación non sería posible a posta en marcha deste certame.

Carlos Montero
Director FIC Vía XIV

GREETINGS FROM THE FIC VIA XIV DIRECTOR

When we created the International Short Film Festival (FIC) Vía XIV in 2016, we knew that with this initiative we wanted to contribute to fostering the creation of a "Verín" brand that would revolve around culture as a differentiating value. Today, only a year after the start of our journey, we arrive at the 2nd Edition of the Festival with this premise fulfilled.

In 2017, the FIC is internationalized and this represents a significant leap in so far as it allows us to carry the name of Verín to many places of our geography. As a result of experience gained in the first year of its life, our festival grows and transforms. Therefore, from the 39 short films selected from five different countries last year for the competition, we have gone to 57 pieces from 21 countries in this edition.

Together with this, the unique and distinguishing features of our Festival are still present in this edition. In this sense, the FIC will revolve around the same themes of Carnival, Border and Emigration, three concepts that are very installed in the imaginary collective of Verín. Although, we realized that we needed to reorganize the categories since Emigration and Border overlapped to some extent. Due to this, the Horizons category is created as a symbolic representation of that imaginary and invisible line, distant and unreachable as a metaphor for migration. On the other hand, the horizon line that separates the here from there, as a sort of Border between where we are and any other place.

Given the uniqueness of our territory, of the Valley of the Támega divided by A Raia, and our history of Emigration and Border with all its meanings on both sides, there had to be a Galician-Portuguese category called A Raia. In it you will see a selection of short films from film-makers of Galicia and Portugal. Similarly, the section dedicated to the carnival now receives the name of Another Look and includes works that destroy Cartesian rules, which create alternative spaces, which experiment with cinematographic language and which manage surreal and dreamlike codes.

At the same time, we decided to create a new category called Nova to allow different pieces to compete that had no place in the subject categories established. In this section, we can find first works of new authors along with winning films at prestigious festivals such as the Festival of Cannes or Venice Film Festival. For the most part, they are films that explore that which is human, family relations, the community, the home or love.

The Horizons section covers topics such as armed conflicts, forced migration, how cities were modelled through immigration or how one lives in a territory occupied by an invading army. They are sincere looks where there is room for beauty and everyday life.

In turn, Another Look brings together films that explore the carnival, masquerades, rites in various parts of the world and encompasses the freest pieces of the festival, in many of which the formal experimentation and narrative makes up the very heart of the film.

Finally, the A Raia section, composed by Galician and Portuguese films; this is made up from four programmes, in which we find some of the best films of the year, together with first works by young authors whose future is promising.

Together with the official poster, from the Via XIV FIC organisation we have endeavoured to set up a full programme of parallel activities for all audiences, which will include film workshops, programming of thematic cycles and retrospectives and forums and discussion panels, among others. The ultimate aim is to bring the film culture closer to all the participants in the various activities, whether they are people from Verín or visitors.

Finally, I would like to especially thank the involvement of the Town Council of Verín as the driving force of FIC Vía XIV and also of all neighbouring town councils, institutions, agencies and collaborating companies, without whose co-operation the setting up of this competition would not be possible.

COMPETICIÓN OFICIAL (CURTAS)

Un festival debe ser un espacio de libertad, de manifestación cultural e de intercambio, un lugar desde o que poder compartir co público unha serie de experiencias filmicas que, en xeral, non se poden atopar en cines comerciais ou na televisión. Por este motivo, o FIC Vía XIV propón unha liña artística que tende cara a un cinema diferente, más creativo, más libre e más autoral.

Para a competición oficial, o FIC Vía XIV recibiu máis de 750 curtas procedentes de 30 países diferentes. Destes, seleccionáronse 15 para a sección Nova formada por tres programas; 10 para a sección Horizontes, conformada por dous programas; 12 para Outra Mirada, que está composta tamén por dous programas e 17 para a sección A Raia, conformada por catro programa. Xunto a isto, dentro do programa oficial e fóra de concurso proxectaranse tres curtas más no apartado de Visionado Especial. En total son, pois, 57 as curtas seleccionadas que proceden de 21 países diferentes.

OFFICIAL COMPETITION (SHORT FILMS)

A festival must be a place for freedom, for cultural expression and for exchange; a place for sharing with the audience film experiences that, in general, are not played in commercial cinemas or on TV. Thus, FIC Vía XIV bets on an artistic line oriented to a different cinema, more creative, freer and more 'personal'.

FIC Vía XIV received more than 750 short films submitted from 30 different countries to take part in the official competition. Of which, only 15 were selected for the category Nova, consisting of three programmes; 10 for the category Horizontes, consisting of two programmes; 12 for Outra Mirada, also consisting of two programmes, and 17 for the category A Raia, consisting of four programmes. Besides, within the official programme and out of the competition, three more short films will be played in the category Visionado Especial. In all, 57 short films from 21 different countries were selected.

EXPLOSION MA BABY

Pauline Curnier Jardin

Holanda, Francia-The Netherlands, France
2016 // 9'

Estamos en agosto. Sente o calor sofocante do sol penetrando a túa pel. Ao teu redor, circula unha abundante cantidade de carne. Miles de homes ofrecen os corpos espidos de bebés nenos á icona anxelical de San Sebastián. Sucédense berros, cores, cánticos e explosións. Hai guirnaldas de cartos. Imaxina que son a única muller. Por tras de nós as mulleres veñen seguíndoos con devoción, vestidas con roupa axustada e cos pés enfundados en calcetins. Agora de regreso aquí. Imaxina como me namorei disto. Ansío desesperadamente formar parte diso. Estar alí. Quero pertencer a este lugar. Pero sei que non podo. Polo que intento plásma-lo nunha película. Vou filmalo unha e outra vez, ano tras ano. Algún día contarei a historia dun home pobre e estéril que quere substituir a San Sebastián. Porén, terán que pasar moitos más veráns ata que aparezca ese héroe.

Pauline Curnier Jardin

Pauline Curnier Jardin, nada en 1980 en Marsella, graduouse en 2006 na Escola Superior de Artes de Paris-Cergy e na Escola Nacional de Artes Decorativas de Paris (ENSAD), coa especialidade en cinema e video. Alí rematou a tese do seu mestrado sobre a representación de Juana de Arco na historia do cinema, centrándose na obra mestra de 1928 de Carl T. Dreyer's, A Pasión de Xoana de Arco.

It's August. Feel the suffocating heat of the sun penetrating your skin. All around you, an abundance of flesh is spinning. Thousands of men offer up the naked bodies of baby boys to the angelic icon of San Sebastian. Screams, colours, chants and explosions. Money-garlands. Imagine no women except me. Wait, yes, behind us women are following with devotion, all dressed up in well pressed clothes and their stocking feet.

Now, come back here. Imagine how badly I fell in love with this. I desperately want to be part of it. To be there. I wanted to belong. But I know that I can't. And so I try to capture it on film. I go there and film it every year, over and over, again and again. One day I will tell the story of a poor and sterile man who wants to replace San Sebastian. But more summers will have to pass before our hero will appear.

Pauline Curnier Jardin

Pauline Curnier Jardin, born in 1980 in Marseilles, graduated in 2006 both from the Ecole supérieure d'Arts de Paris-Cergy, and from the Ecole Nationale des Arts Décoratifs de Paris (ENSAD), with a specialisation in cinema and video. ## FLORES

Jorge Jácome

Portugal

2017 // 26'

Nun escenario de desastre natural, a poboación das Azores ao completo é evacuada forzosamente debido a unha praga incontrolada de hortensias, unha flor moi común nestas illas. Dous mozos soldados, apegados á beleza da paisaxe, reláttannos as tristes historias daqueles que foron forzados a marchar e o inherente desexo a se resistiren e a seguir vivindo nas illas. A reflexión fílmica convértese nunha reflexión nostálxica e política sobre a identidade e a pertenza a un territorio, e os roles que assumimos nos lugares dos que procedemos.

Jorge Jácome Flores

Jorge Jácome naceu en Viana do Castelo (Portugal) en 1988 e pasou a súa infancia en Macao. Graduouse en cinema en 2010 pola Escola Superior de Teatro e Cinema e en 2016 graduouse con “felicitation du jury” (“mención especial do xurado”) por Le Fresnoy-Studio national des Arts Contemporains. As súas curtas proxectáronse en festivais de cine en Portugal, España, Francia, Alemaña, Eslovenia, Polonia e Israel, así como en retrospectivas no Museo New Bedford Whaling, Palais de Tokio, Maison Européenne de la Photographie, CalArts –California Institute of the Arts e Georgetown University.

In a natural crisis scenario, the entire population of Azores is forced to evict due to an uncontrolled plague of hydrangeas, a common flower in these islands. Two young soldiers, bound to the beauty of the landscape, guide us to the stories of sadness of those forced to leave and the inherent desire to resist by inhabiting their islands. The filmic wandering becomes a nostalgic and political reflection on territorial belonging and identity, and the roles we assume in the places we come from.

Jorge Jácome was born in Viana do Castelo (Portugal) in 1988 and spent its childhood in Macau. ## FARPÕES BALDIOS (BARBS, WASTELANDS)

Marta Mateus

Portugal

2017 // 25'

A finais do século XIX, os campesiños en Portugal comenzaron unha valente loita para conseguir mellores condicións laborais. Tras xeracións de miseria e fame, a Revolución dos Claveis sementou a promesa da reforma agraria. Principalmente na rexión do Alentejo, estes traballadores rurais ocuparon as grandes propiedades que pertenceran aos seus señores. Posiblemente, o xerme perdido doutros froitos... No Alentejo dicíase que cando algo se perdía os que o estaban buscando debían volver ao comezo. Debemos rezar e pedir a Santa Lucía que despexe a nosa vista para que poidamos ver e mirar mellor. Os protagonistas desta película, resistentes na loita, moitos deles analfabetos, que traballaron desde a súa infancia, contan a historia aos mozos de hoxe en día, coas súas propias palabras.

Marta Mateus é unha actriz e directora coñecida por Setembro (2016), Filme do Desasosiego (2010) e A Zona (2008).

In the end of the 19th century the peasants in Portugal started a courageous struggle for better work conditions. After generations of starving misery, the Carnation Revolution so wed the promise of an Agrarian Reform. Mostly in the Alentejo region, these rural workers occupied the huge properties where they were once submitted to the power of their Masters. Perhaps the lost seed of other fruits...

It is said in Alentejo, when something is lost, those who are looking should start to walk back to the beginning. We must pray and ask Saint Lucy to clear our vision, so we can see and look better.

The protagonists of this film, resistants of this struggle, many of the illiterate, working since childhood, tell their story to the youngsters of today, in their own words.

60 ANOS DA NOUVELLE VAGUE

Hai seis décadas que o termo “nouvelle vague” se empregou por primeira vez nunha reportaxe de L'Express para referirse aos cambios xeracionais dos que medraron na posguerra e que ían protagonizar o maio do 68 ou presenciar a liberación de Arxelia. Abríase un tempo novo que as películas galas ían tamén reflectir co movemento cinematográfico que máis marcou ao cinema europeo. Un grupo de mozos críticos saídos da revista Cahiers du Cinéma, coa vista posta nos grandes autores de Hollywood (Hitchcock, Hawks ou Welles) e reivindicando a algúns figuras do seu país que se atopaban fóra de todo academicismo (Renoir, Vigo ou Becker), lanzáronse a dirixir e erixíronse precisamente niso, en autores.

Os seus referentes estaban nos Estados Unidos, en efecto, pero fronte á concepción industrial do filmmaker, algo así coma o xefe na cadea de montaxe dos estudos de Los Ángeles, o que definiu François Truffaut na súa célebre política dos autores en 1955 foi que estes directores arrastraban uns trazos de filme en filme que lles outorgaban unha posición de artista con características definidas. Desmontando a linguaxe dos seus mestres, os denominados mozos turcos lanzáronse a filmar na rúa, con iluminación natural, cunha linguaxe próxima á realidade, libre de dramaturxia e, cecais o máis importante, interrogáronse sobre as ferramentas estéticas e narrativas do cinema, integrando nas súas cintas a memoria previa do mesmo. Cecais esta sexa a primeira xeración que fai cine partindo do cine, interrogañándose sobre o seu propio aparato.

Cando o propio Truffaut estrea en Cannes Os 400 golpes en 1959, movemento que chega seguido do Oso de Ouro de Berlín para Claude Chabrol por Os primos ese mesmo ano, non queda lugar a dúbidas: unha nova xeración de críticos convertidos en cineastas acaba de facerse co timón do cinema francés. Xa meses antes Pierre Billard viña advertindo disto nas páxinas de Cinéma 58, analizando o traballo doutros membros deste ilustre grupo, como Jacques Rivette ou Jean-Luc Godard. El sentou os cementos e deulle nome: nacía a nouvelle vague.

As contribucións destes cineastas chegan ata os nosos días, cunha influencia que se fai sentir non só en moitos directores do cinema francés actual, senón en todos os realizadores mundiais herdeiros da modernidade. En boa parte contribuíu a isto o continuo acompañamento crítico da revista Cahiers du Cinéma, que igual de influínte resultou nos que se dedican a escribir sobre cinema. A evolución do movemento foi sempre ligada ao dunha publicación que, coma os cineastas, foi mudando en décadas posteriores.

O presente ciclo intenta realizar unha sinxela aproximación a algúns dos directores que marcaron a nouvelle vague, amosando títulos de distintas etapas e con temáticas e estilos moi heteroxéneos. Preséntase coma introdución para os que non coñezan ainda estas películas e permite repasar aos xa iniciados unha serie de obras a través das cales, día a día, se detallarán algunhas das características destes cineastas. Trátase de reflexionar sempre sobre o seu lugar na historia do cinema e a percepción da súa figura hoxe, sesenta anos despois dese feliz nacemento.

Víctor Paz Morandeira

Películas que integran o ciclo:

Os primos (Les cousins, Claude Chabrol, 1959) – 105'

Con ésta e O belo Serxio díxose moito tempo que foi Chabrol quen inaugurou a nouvelle vague. Se temos só en conta os longos, poderíamos dicir que esta afirmación é certa. Máis alá destas consideracións, Os primos mantense como un dos traballos más relevantes do realizador ao inicio da súa obra. De todos os turcos, cecais sexa o que mellor reflectiu as fobias e os desexos dunha pequena burguesía en redefinición.

Aquí conta a historia dun mozo estudiante de orixe campesiño que se muda a París para estudar Dereito. Na capital alóxase na casa casa dun primo que parece só interesado nos praceres más primarios que ofrece a gran cidade. Coa súa actitude e costumes, o mozo síntese tentado a deixarse arrastrar, sobre todo cando se cruza na ecuación unha bela e intelixente muller que obnubila a súa razón.

Ascensor para o cadalso (Ascenseur pour l'échafaud, Louis Malle, 1957) – 90'

Habitualmente integrado na nouvelle vague, o certo é que Malle, malia traballar nos mesmos anos, nunca tivo unha relación directa co núcleo duro de Cahiers e seguiu a súa carreira en paralelo. Cando se dispón a rodar a película que nos ocupa, a súa opera prima, xa traballara como asistente de dirección para Jacques Cousteau e Robert Bresson. A súa orixe, polo tanto, non estaba na crítica, senón na fotografía para o cinema. Isto nótase moito na súa aproximación ás historias que filma, sempre impecables no estético, elemento polo cal cecais dialoga ben cos seus coetáneos e de aí que, sen pornos estrictos, nós tamén desexemos metelo no saco.

Considerado xunto con Jean-Pierre Melville o mellor realizador do cine negro deses anos, o certo é que aquí comparte ao seu director de fotografía habitual, Henri Decaë, ademais de contar na banda sonora con música original de Miles Davis. O seu espectacular jazz dá as notas a esta partitura de amores fatais, nos que unha parella de amantes decide desfacerse do marido da moza. Pero as cousas non saen sempre como un as agarda á hora de cometer un críme. E se non que Ilo digan a unha angustiada Jeanne Moreau, nun dos mellores papeis da recién finada actriz.

O desprezo (Le mépris, Jean-Luc Godard, 1963) – 104'

De todos os integrantes do movemento, Godard fo quen de xeito máis obvio quixo experimentar coa linguaxe. Se en Ao final da escapada (1960) se cuestionaba as regras da montaxe e o son diexético e en Vivir a súa vida (1962) acometía a difícil tarefa de “despezar” en planos á súa parella, Anna Karina, interrogándose de forma crítica sobre a representación da muller no cinema; en O desprezo emprende un camiño de experimentación narrativa en capas metacinematográficas, acentuado despois en Pierrot o tolo (1965), que xa non ten camiño de volta.

A primeira en cor, que explota de forma suelta, o filme é unha adaptación dunha novela de Alberto Moravia. Nela Godard pon ao seu adorado Fritz Lang a exercer de director na ficción, tomando unha encarga de adaptar a Odisea de Homero. O seu produtor non está contento co resultado, así que decide contratar a un escritor para revisar o guion. Entra tamén en escena a súa muller, interpretada por Brigitte Bardot no apoxeo da súa carreira. Obxecto de desexo para o produtor, a relación entre ela e o seu marido deteriorase ante a falta de ciumes deste. En segundo plano, a súa historia entrelázase coa de Penélope e Ulises na mítica obra homérica.

Domicilio conxugal (Domicile conjugal, François Truffaut, 1970) – 100'

De Truffaut non se sabe se amaba máis o cinema ou a vida. En todo caso, moitas veces co primeiro propúxose imitar á segunda, e en ocasións conseguiuno de maneira maxistral. Desde logo fixoo na serie con Antoine Doinel, persoaxe de ficción que interpretou por primeira vez de neno Jean-Pierre Léaud en Os 400 golpes (1959). Conforme o actor ía medrando, el e Truffaut filmaban novos episodios da súa vida. Domicilio conxugal é o cuarto na serie, dun total de cinco, que terían sido máis de non ser pola prematura norte do realizador por cancro aos 52 anos.

Nesta película Doinel achégase á trintena e está casado con Christine. Van ter un fillo, así que o mozo decide cambiar de traballo e buscar un mellor emprego co que alimentar ao vástago. Na súa nova empresa coñece á xaponesa Kioko, coa que ten un romance. Antoine segue tendo unha tendencia a saltar de flor en flor e pregúntase se Christine poderá perdoarlle.

A marquesa de O (La marquise d'O, Éric Rohmer, 1976) – 103'

O outro gran cineasta do amor neste grupo foi Rohmer, que dedicou case a totalidade da súa carreira a analizar este complexo sentimento. Se ben case todas as historias da nouvelle vague son contemporáneas, a veces atrevéronse co cinema de época e Rohmer, xunto a Jacques Rivette, foi que máis o transitou.

Aquí adapta unha novela alemá do XIX de Heinrich von Kleist que conta o saqueo dun castelo ao norte de Italia por parte de tropas rússas. Un conde deste exército trata de seducir insistenteamente á marquesa que vive nel.

Entre os aspectos más revolucionarios da película cóntase o uso exclusivo de fontes de luz naturais. O tandem de Rohmer con Néstor Almendros, co que repite tras outro traballo destacable, A colecciónista (1967), decidiu estudar ben o comportamento da luz no castelo, servíndose das súas fiestras para captar secuencias que parecen saídas dun cadro.

Diálogo: qué queda da Nouvelle vague hoxe?

Para afondar máis nos autores e estilos que caracterizan á nouvelle vague, Víctor Paz Morandeira (CGAI – Filmoteca de Galicia) e Nicolas Azalbert (Cahiers du Cinéma) levarán a cabo un diálogo no que repasarán brevemente a historia do movemento, reflexionando sobre a súa evolución e impacto no cinema actual.

A charla contará con extractos dalgúns filmes fóra do ciclo, para que os espectadores poidan ter unha percepción máis ampla do movemento.

60 YEARS OF THE NOUVELLE VAGUE

Six decades ago the concept “nouvelle vague” was used for the first time in a L'Express news report to refer to the generational changes of those who grew up in the postwar period and who would play an important role in May 68 and witness Algeria's liberation. A new era was beginning where French films were also going to reflect along with the cinematographic movement what had most made a mark on European cinema. A group of young critics from the magazine Cahiers du Cinéma, with their eyes fixed on the great Hollywood authors (Hitchcock, Hawks or Welles) and advocating some authors from their country who were outside of the academy sphere (Renoir, Vigo or Becker), started directing films becoming authors themselves.

In fact their references were in the United States, but contrary to the industrial conception of filmmaker, such as the boss in the editing chain the Los Angeles studios, what François Truffaut defined in his celebrated policy on authors in 1995 was that these directors dragged some features in film to film which gave them the position of artist with defined characteristics. Taking apart the language of their masters, those so-called young Turks started filming in the streets, with natural light, language close to reality, free from dramaturgy and, maybe, most importantly, they wondered about aesthetic and narrative cinema tools, integrating in their tapes its previous memory. Probably this was the first generation which made cinema starting from cinema, asking questions of their own technology.

When Truffaut himself releases in Cannes The 400 Blows in 1959, movement followed by the Golden Bear in Berlin for Claude Chabrol for The cousins in the same year, there is no doubt about it: a young generation of critics turned into cinema directors has just taken on the baton of French cinema. Already months before Pierre Billard had been commenting on it in the pages of Cinéma 58, analyzing the work of other members of this illustrious group, such as Jacques Rivette or Jean-Luc Godard. He laid the foundations and named it: the Nouvelle vague had been born.

The contributions of these cinema directors can be seen today, with an influence that is felt, not only in many directors of present day French cinema, but also in the inheritors of modernity: the worldwide producers. In a large part the constant critical support of the magazine Cahiers du Cine has contributed to this, which has been equally influential on those who dedicated themselves to write about cinema. The evolution of the movement has always been linked to a publication that, just as with cinema directors, changed in the following decades.

This cycle aims to be a simple approach to some of the directors who have influenced Nouvelle vague, showing titles from different eras and with very diverse titles and styles. It is presented as an introduction for those who still don't know these movies and it allows those who are already familiar with them to be reminded of a series of works through which, day to day, some characteristics of these cinema directors can be found. The aim is always to reflect on their place in cinematic history and how they are perceived nowadays, sixty years after this happy birth.

Films which compose the cycle:

The cousins (Les cousins, Claude Chabrol, 1959) – 105'

With this one and The beautiful Sergio it was said that for a long time that it was Chabrol who inaugurated the Nouvelle vague. If we only take into account the long movies, we can confirm that this statement is true. Beyond these considerations, The Cousins is still one of the most relevant works of the producer at the beginning of his career. Of all the Turks, maybe it was he who has best reflected on the phobias and desires of the small bourgeoisie in redefinition.

In this movie he tells the story of a young student from a rural background who moves to Paris to study Law. In the capital he stays in the house of a cousin who seems only interested in the most primal pleasures that the big city offers. With his attitude and habits, the guy is tempted to let himself be dragged down by him, especially when a beautiful and intelligent woman who sweeps him away enters the equation.

Elevator to the Gallows (Ascenseur pour l'échafaud, Louis Malle, 1957) – 90'

Normally integrated in the Nouvelle vague, the truth is that Malle, despite working during the same years, never had a direct relationship with the hard core of Cahiers and continued his career in parallel. When he is about to start filming this current film, his opera prima, he had already worked as a direction assistant for Jacques Cousteau and Robert Bresson. His origin, therefore, was not in film critique, but in cinema photography. This is very noticeable in his approach to the stories that he films, always impeccable in the aesthetic, an element which he shares with his contemporaries and for that reason, without being strict, we would also like to include him in this group.

Considered together with Jean-Pierre Melville the best producer in the black cinema of those years, the truth is that here he shares his usual photography director, Henri Decaë, apart from having in the soundtrack original music from Miles Davis. His spectacular jazz is the music of this music score of deadly romances, in which a couple of lovers decide to get rid of the woman's husband. But things don't always turn out as one expects them to when committing a crime.

And if not tell it to the distressed Jeanne Moreau, in one of the best roles of the recently deceased actress.

Contempt (Le mépris, Jean-Luc Godard, 1963) – 104'

Of all the members of the movement, Godard was the one who wanted to experiment with language in the most obvious way. If in Breathless (1960) he questions the editing rules and the diegetic sound and in My life to live (1962) he undertakes the difficult duty of disassembling his partner, Anna Karina, in frames, wondering in a critical way about the representation of women in cinema; in Contempt he embarks on a journey of narrative experimentation in metacinematographic layers, emphasized after in Pierrot goes Wild (1965), and it's a journey of no return.

The first one in colour, which he exploits in a sumptuous way, is an adaptation of a novel of Alberto Moravia. In these films Godard gets his beloved Fritz Lang to act as director in the fiction, taking on the job of adapting Homer's Odyssey. His producer is not happy with the result, so he decides to hire a writer to review the script. His wife also comes into play, performed by Brigitte Bardot at the height of her career. Object of desire for the producer, the relationship between her and her husband deteriorates due to the lack of jealousy from him. In the background, his story mixed with the one from Penelope and Ulises in the mythical homeric book.

Bed and Board (Domicile conjugal, François Truffaut, 1970) – 100'

Of Truffaut we don't know what he loved more: cinema or life. In any case, he aimed to imitate the later in the former, and sometimes he achieved it in a masterful way. He did so in the series with Antoine Doinel, the fictional character that Jean-Pierre Léaud performed for the first time as a child in The 400 Blows (1959). As the actor went on growing, he and Truffaut filmed new chapters of his life. Bed and Board is the fourth in the series, from a total of five, that would have been more if it wasn't for the premature death from cancer of the producer at the age of 52.

In this movie Doinel is approaching his 30's and he is married to Christine. They are expecting a child, so the young guy decides to change his job and look for a better one in order to feed his child.

In his new company he meets the Japanese woman Kioko and has a romance with her. Antoine has the tendency to flirt around and he wonders if Christine will forgive him.

The Marquise of O (La marquise d'O, Éric Rohmer, 1976) – 103'

The other great director of love in this group was Rohmer, who dedicated his whole career to analyzing this complex feeling. While all the stories of the Nouvelle vague are contemporary, sometimes they experimented with period pieces and Rohmer, together with Jacques Rivette were the ones that did it the most.

In this case he adapts a German novel from the nineteenth century from Heinrich von Kleist that tells of the looting of a castle in the North of Italy by the Russian troops. A count from this army insistently courts a marquise who lives there.

Amongst the most revolutionary aspects of the film it is the exclusive use of natural sources of light. The duo of Rohmer and Néstor Almendros, with whom he repeats after another remarkable work, The Collector (1967) decided to properly study the behaviour of the light in the castle, using its windows to capture sequences which seemed taken from a picture.

Talk: What remains of the Nouvelle vague nowadays?

To improve the understanding of the authors and styles that characterize the Nouvelle vague, Víctor Paz Morandeira (CGAI – Galician Cinemateque) and Nicolas Azalbert (Cahiers du Cinéma) will hold a formal discussion where they will go through the history of the movement, reflecting on its evolution and impact on present day cinema.

The talk will include parts of some films not included in the cycle, so that the spectators can have a wider perception of the movement.

HOMENAXE 20 ANIVERSARIO MESTRADO DOCUMENTAL CREATIVO (UAB)

Hai vinte anos, cando se iniciaron as actividades do Mestrado en Teoría e Práctica do Documental Creativo da Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, o novo documental apenas comezaba a despuntar. Era novo, ese documental que aparecía no horizonte, por dúas cuestiós principais. En primeiro lugar, porque se trataba dun tipo de cinema que, nas dúas ou tres décadas anteriores, fora relegado a un segundo termo, entre outras razóns porque o auxe da televisión parecía telo feito superfluo. E, en segundo lugar, debido ao feito de que, contradicindo a idea da súa posición redundante con respecto á televisión, o cinema documental renacía acompañado dunha serie de innovacións estéticas que haberían de revolucionar o medio nos vindeiros anos.

O Mestrado de Documental Creativo apareceu alimentándose dese caldo de cultivo, coa vocación de servir de ponte entre a tradición documentalista clásica e as innovacións que se auguraban neste tipo de cinema. Diversos profesores da área de comunicación audiovisual, baixo a dirección de Roman Gubern, secundado polos documentalistas Gonzalo Herralde, e coa colaboración organizativa de Josexo Cerdán e eu mesmo, lanzámonos a unha aventura que, neses momentos, non só era inédita no ámbito universitario, senón tamén no panorama docente en xeral. O tempo demostrou que foi unha medida acertada, posto que na actualidade os cursos sobre documental proliferan en todos os ámbitos da ensinanza, pública ou privada, e o interese do estudantes polo medio non cesa de medrar a nivel internacional.

O proxecto articulouse desde un principio de xeito non moi habitual nos mestrados universitarios, posto que pretendeu fixar tres liñas de actuación: investigadora, docente e práctica, e sobre todo quixo colocarse á vanguarda do sector, en lugar de ir a remolque dos inmediatos intereses industriais ou empresariais. Outra innovación, que logo foi paulatinamente aplicada con maior ou menor éxito á meirande parte de propostas que foron xurdindo noutras institucións, consistiu na vontade de que os alumnos realizasen os seus propios documentais e que estas prácticas tiveran un profesional, é dicir que acadaran a calidade técnica e a ambiación necesaria para que a súa exhibición puidera exceder os límites da universidade. Era un xeito de promover o rigor e a excelencia da ensinanza, ao tempo que permitía posicionar o Mestrado no ámbito da produción, un sector moi variado que non deixaba de medrar. Este auxe estaba claramente sesgado neses momentos cara a produción exclusivamente profesional, sen intervención decisiva dos estudiantes, nin sequera naqueles casos nos que unha universidade estivera implicada na realización de documentais. É por isto polo que a iniciativa do Mestrado de Documental da UAB foi tamén pioneira neste sentido.

O prestixio do Mestrado foi aumentando ao longo dos anos, á vez que se incrementaba tamén a súa complexidade. A produción dos documentais por parte dos alumnos levouse a cabo desde un principio en colaboración con diversos medios do sector (Media Park, Barcelona Televisión, TV3, Televisión Española), os cales se encargaban tamén da súa difusión pública. Ademais, desde un primeiro momento, o Mestrado procurou difundir os documentais dos seus alumnos pola rede de festivais nacionais ou internacionais que se ía ampliando ao unísono coas sucesivas edicións do proxecto universitario. Ao longo das dezaseis edicións do Mestrado, producironse máis dun cento de documentais que colleitaron innumerables premios e foron seleccionados en certames nacionais e internacionais como IDFA, San Sebastián, Curtas Vila do Conde, Rotterdam, South by Southwest, Sitges, Visions du Réel, Bafici, Doclisboa, Cinema du Réel, Punto de Vista, Zinebi, Documenta Madrid, Alcances ou Málaga.

A parte teórica do Mestrado do documental nutriuse de profesores especialistas neste tipo de cinema, pertencentes a diversas universidades españolas. Nas tarefas documentais colaboraron moitos profesionais do sector, así como prestixiosos documentalistas, algúns deles formandos nas propias aulas do proxecto docente coma Virginia del Pino, Jorge Tur, Andrés Duque e Jorge Caballero, entre outros. Por outra banda, os componentes do Mestrado non deixaron de reflexionar sobre a materia, labor que produciu un bo número de publicacións, convertidas en referencias esenciais no ámbito da ensinanza e a investigación en torno ao cinema do real. Ademais, o Mestrado colaborou moi estreitamente con diversos festivais deste tipo de cinema como o Festival de Málaga, o Festival Punto de Vista de Pamplona ou o Festival de L'Alternativa de Barcelona, organizando sesións especiais ou realizando publicacións patrocinadas por eses certames. Tamén colaborou, como institución ou a través dos seus promotores, con outras universidades na organización de seminarios e encontros especializados. Cómprase citar especialmente a Universidade do País Vasco UPV/EHU que organiza o seminario Territorios e Fronteiras. Research on Documentary Filmmaking ao que asisten cada ano profesores do Mestrado en calidade de ponentes, así como alumnos do posgrado.

A lo largo das vinte edicións do Mestrado, máis de cincocentos alumnos pasaron polas súas aulas. A súa procedencia ten sido moi variada, destacando en especial os procedentes de países latinoamericanos, seguidos dos españoles. Pero tamén son numerosos os chegados de distintos países europeos. Moitos deles seguiron mantendo o contacto co Mestrado, xa fora para colaborar en diversas iniciativas ou para coproducir co mesmo os seus propios documentais.

Na liña da súa vontade innovadora, o Mestrado de Documental Creativo da UAB, despois de explorar ao longo das súas edicións as diferentes modalidades do novo documental, desde o seu xiro subxectivo ao ensaio filmico, inaugurou hai seis anos unha nova liña de experimentación dedicada á ensinanza e á produción de modalidades inéditas do cinema documental como os documentais interactivos (docuwebs) ou os inmersivos (realidade virtual). Isto levounos a colaborar con empresas punteiras do sector, como Samsung.

En setembro deste ano, o Festival Alcances, de Cádiz, na súa 49 edición, efectuou unha homenaxe ao Mestrado de Documental Creativo con motivo do seu vinte aniversario. O acto constitúiu un perfecto colofón a unha primeira etapa moi productiva dun proxecto que pretende seguir á vanguarda do coñecemento e a ensinanza das moi distintas formas de cinema do real.

TRIBUTE 20TH ANNIVERSARY CREATIVE DOCUMENTARY MASTER (UAB)

When the activities of Creative Documentary Theory and Practice Masters of Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona started twenty years ago the new documentary was only emerging. It was new, this type of documentary appearing on the horizon, for two main reasons. First of all, because it was a type of new cinema which in the previous two or three decades had been given secondary importance, amongst other reasons because the boom of television seemed to have made it superfluous. And secondly, due to the fact that, contradicting the idea of its redundant position with respect to the television, documentary cinema was being reborn accompanied by several aesthetic innovations that would revolutionize the medium in the upcoming years.

The Creative Documentary Masters appeared thriving on this breeding ground, with the aim to become a bridge between the classical documentary tradition and the innovations brought on by this type of cinema. Several professors in the area of Audiovisual Communication, under the direction of Roman Gubern, seconded by the documentary maker Gonzalo Herralde and with the collaboration of Josexo Cerdán and myself, started this adventure, which at the time was not only unique in the university field, but also in the teaching world in general. Time has proved that it was the right measure to take, as currently documentary courses proliferate in every teaching field, public or private, and students' interest for the subject keeps rising at an international level.

Since the beginning the project was developed in quite an unusual way for university master courses, as it aimed to focus on three lines of performance: research, teaching and practice, and above all, it wanted to position itself at the cutting edge of the sector, instead of lagging behind the immediate industrial or business interests. Another innovation, that afterwards was gradually enforced with success more or less in most of the proposals which emerged from other institutions, consisted in the desire for students to film their own documentaries and that these practices had a professional element, which meant they reached the technical quality and ambition necessary for their exhibition to go beyond the university sphere. This was a way of promoting rigour and teaching excellence, at the same time positioning the Masters in the production field, a very varied sector that did not stop growing. This boom totally focused at the time towards exclusively professional production, without significant influence from the students, not even on those cases where a university was involved in documentary making. Therefore, the UAB Documentary Masters initiative was also pioneering in this sense.

The Masters' prestige has been rising through the years, as its complexity was also growing. The documentary production by the students has developed since the beginning in collaboration with several media outlets from the sector (Media Park, Barcelona Televisión, TV3, Televisión Española), which were in charge of their public diffusion. Moreover, since the very first moment, the Masters tried to spread its students' documentaries in the network of national and international festivals which were being expanded at the same time as the successive editions of the university project. Through the 19 editions of the Masters, a hundred documentaries have been produced which have won countless awards in national and international festivals such as IDFA, San Sebastian, Curtas Vila do Conde, Rotterdam, South by Southwest, Sitges, Visions du Réel, Bafici, Doclisboa, Cinema du Réel, Punto de Vista, Zinebi, Documenta Madrid, Alcances or Malaga.

The theoretical part of the documentary Masters has acquired specialized professors in this type of cinema, belonging to different Spanish universities. In the documental duties many professionals from this sector have collaborated, as well as prestigious documentary makers, some of them trained in this project such as Virginia del Pino, Jorge Tur, Andrés Duque and Jorge Caballero, amongst others. On the other hand, members of the Masters haven't stopped reflecting on the subject, a labor that has produced a good number of publications, which have become essential references in the teaching field and also in research on cinema about reality. Moreover, the Masters has narrowly collaborated with several festivals of this type of cinema such as the Malaga Festival, Punto de Vista in Pamplona or L'Alternativa Festival in Barcelona, organizing special sessions or publications sponsored by these festivals. It has also collaborated, as an institution or through its promoters with other universities in the organization of specialized seminars and conferences. It is worth highlighting the Universidad de País Vasco UPV/EHU which organizes the seminar Territorios y Fronteras. Research on Documentary Filmmaking, where every year professors of the masters attend as speakers as well as students from the postgraduate course.

Over the twenty editions of the Masters more than five hundred students have passed through its classrooms. Their place of origin has been varied, with people belonging to Latin American countries mostly standing out followed by the Spanish. But there are also numerous students from different European countries. Most of them have kept in touch with the Masters to collaborate in different initiatives or to co-produce their own documentaries.

In line with its commitment to innovation, the Creative Documentary Masters from UAB, after exploring different types of documentary through its editions, from the subjective twist to film experiment, six years ago inaugurated a new experimental line dedicated to the teaching and production of unparalleled types of documentary cinema such as interactive documentaries (docuwebs) or immersive ones (virtual reality). This has brought us to collaborate with cutting edge companies in this sector such as Samsung.

In September this year, the Alcances Festival in Cadiz in its 49th edition, paid homage to the Creative Documentary Masters on its 20th anniversary. The event represented the perfect culmination of a very productive first stage of a project which aims to remain at the forefront of knowledge and teaching of the various type of reality cinema.

OBRADOIRO "ACHEGAR O CINEMA ÁS PERSOAS".

Neste obradoiro para todos os públicos, cada asistente elaborará unha curtametraxe con imaxes e vídeos captados desde o seu propio teléfono móvil. Porque o mellor xeito de coñecer algo é facéndoo e, por iso, é importante ofrecer aos participantes e espectadores do FIC Vía XIV unha aproximación práctica a esa outra maneira de facer cinema.

Deste xeito, este obradoiro pretende cumplir dous obxectivos básicos: dunha banda, dar a coñecer aos participantes autores e películas que se fixeron con ferramentas que todos temos ao noso alcance e, pola outra, que cada participante realice a súa propia peza co seu teléfono móvil.

Día 1. Teoría (4 horas)

Realizar unha aproximación, a través de fragmentos de películas e explicacións sinxelas, a ese outro xeito de facer cinema.

Día 2. Exercicio Práctico

Cada participante analizará o seu aparato de filmación e as ferramentas que se lle ofrecerán para poder facer a práctica. Buscarase material en torno ao cal realizar a película.

Día 3. Exercicio Práctico (4 horas)

Durante as tres primeiras horas realizaranse as pezas, un traballo de montaxe asesorado pola profesora. Unha vez rematadas, proxeclaranse na clase para poder realizar unha análise colectiva dos resultados.

Imparte o obradoiro:

Maider Fernández: É educadora, artista e realizadora. Traballou como mediadora no Centro Internacional de Cultura Contemporánea Tabakalera, en San Sebastián. Compaxinou ese labor co de profesora de fotografía nos cursos anuais de Donostia Kultura da cidade e, a súa vez, realizando distintos traballos audiovisuais no proxecto colectivo As mozas de Pasaik. Actualmente, atópase realizando en solitario o proxecto As letras de Jordi e a videoinstalación Gloria e María.

WORKSHOP "GETTING THE CINEMA TO THE PEOPLE"

In this workshop for all audiences, each assistant will draw up a short film with images and videos captured from their own mobile phone. Because the best way to know something is doing it and, therefore, it is important to offer participants and viewers of the FIC Vía XIV a practical approach to that other way of making films.

In this way, this workshop aims to fulfill two basic objectives: on one hand, to show participants authors and films that have been made with tools that we all have in our reach and, on the other, that each participant performs his own piece with his mobile phone .

Day 1. Theory (4 hours)

An approximation, through movie fragments and simple explanations, to that other way of making movies.

Day 2. Practical Exercise

Each participant will analyze their filming device and the tools that will be offered to practice. You will find the material around you to make the movie.

Day 3. Practical Exercise (4 hours)

During the first three hours the pieces will be done, an assembly work advised by the teacher. Once finished, they will be projected in the classroom to be able to perform a collective analysis of the results.

Workshop by:

Maider Fernández- She is an educator, artist and director. He worked as mediator at the International Center for Contemporary Culture Tabakalera, in San Sebastián. He combined this work with the photography professor in the annual Donostia Kultura courses of the city and carried out various audiovisual works for the collective project Las niñas de Pasaik. She is currently working on her solo projects Jordi's lyrics and Gloria & María.

MÁSTERCLASS A CARGO DE MAIDER FERNÁNDEZ IRIARTE

En esta sesión proponemos el acercamiento a la obra de Maider Fernández Iriarte, la mayoría realizada junto a María Elorza en el colectivo Las chicas de Pasaik. A través de la muestra de su trabajo, hablaremos en torno al cine doméstico, al retrato y el encuentro con el otro. También sobre la necesidad de captar el tiempo de lo cotidiano, del juego del filmar y de las distintas maneras que tiene de abordar el trabajo: filmar con un teléfono móvil o utilizar una cámara profesional, el trabajo colectivo o individual y el valor de lo personal para construir un discurso universal.

MASTERCLASS BY MAIDER FERNÁNDEZ IRIARTE

In this session we propose the approach to the work of Maider Fernández Iriarte, the majority carried out together with María Elorza in the group Las chicas de Pasaik. Through the sample of his work, we will talk about domestic cinema, the portrait and the encounter with the other. Also about the need to capture the time of everyday life, the game of filming and the different ways it has to tackle work: filming with a mobile phone or using a professional camera, collective or individual work and the value of personal to build a universal discourse.

ESTRANO POR FÓRA, SALVAXE POR DENTRO

O entroido galego e, dentro del, o ouresán en particular, constitúe un tesouro cultural de primeira magnitud. Este foro pretende explorar, en colaboración coa Sociedade Antropolóxica Galega, o concepto do entroido como un fenómeno non centralizado que afecta e compete a toda a poboación da comarca de Verín e que nos conecta co mundo.

Tanto a simboloxía dos traxes típicos do entroido verinés como as propias tradicións deses días de festa son paralelas a outros fenómenos case iguais que se celebran en lugares tan dispares como Xeorgia, o Sahara ou os países bálticos.

No marco deste foro, visionarase o documental Estrano por fóra, salvaxe por dentro de Pedro G. Losada e Miguel Losada. Este traballo tenta transmitir unha mirada desmesurada dos participantes que, como oficiantes dun vello rito presidido por verdaderos demiúrgos, encarnados nos traxes, aspiran a ser os motores do mundo.

Participantes:

Pedro G. Losada E Miguel Losada

STRANGE OUTSIDE, WILD INSIDE

The Galician carnival, and particularly the Ourense one, is a big cultural treasure. This forum aims to explore, in collaboration with the Galician Anthropological Society, the concept of carnival as a non-centralized phenomenon that affects and compels the entire population of the Verín region and that connects them with the world.

The symbolism of the carnival costumes from Verín and the traditions of those celebrations are parallel to other phenomenal events that occur in places as diverse as Georgia, the Sahara or the Baltic countries.

Within this forum, the documentary Strange outside, Wild Inside by Pedro G. Losada and Miguel Losada will be watched out. This work attempts to convey an overwhelming glance of the participants who, as officers of an old rite chaired by true demigods, embodied in suits, aspire to be the engines of the world.

Participants:

Pedro G. Losada & Miguel Losada

TERRA DE LEITE E MEL

O equipo de rodaxe do documental Terra de leite e mel impartirá unha clase magistral na que se abordará a problemática de como se puede construír unha obra cinematográfica, cun estilo e unha estética propias, tratando unha realidade tan sumamente conflitiva e delicada como é a dos desprazamentos humanos provocados por conflitos bélicos.

Partindo desta evidencia que, dalgún xeito, inspira o título do documental, a película medita sobre o propio concepto de terra prometida. Onde se sitúa para o refuxiado, para o desprazado, ese paraíso? Pertence ao destino que o afasta do perigo? Ou forma parte dun pasado idealizado, feliz? É, tal vez, a infancia?

O foro tratará estas cuestións amosando exemplos concretos: fragmentos da película a través dos que se explicarán porque se tomaron determinadas decisiones de montaxe. Ademais, abordarase como se estableceu contacto con cada un dos protagonistas da película e canto tempo dedicou o equipo a estar con eles.

Xunto a isto, os participantes explicarán as diferentes fases de rodaxe da película, desde a xestación da idea ata a fase de montaxe na que se atopan na actualidade. Para finalizar, esta actividade contará cun debate moderado por Rafael Cid, xornalista verinés.

LAND OF MILK AND HONEY

The film crew of the Land of Milk and Honey documentary will impart a Materclass focused on how to build a cinematographic work, with its own style and aesthetics, dealing with a reality that is so extremely conflictive and delicate as the one of the human trips provoked by war conflicts.

Based on an evidence that inspires the title of the documentary, the film meditates on the concept of the promised land itself. Where does the refugee, as a displaced person, find himself in paradise? Does he belong to a destiny that moves him away from danger? Or is part of an idealized and happy past? Is it maybe childhood?

The forum will focus on these issues by showing concrete examples: fragments of the film to explain why certain assembly decisions have been made.

In addition, it will focus on how contact with each one of the protagonists of the film has been established and how long it has dedicated the team to be with them. Along with this, the participants will explain the different phases of filming the movie, from the gestation of the idea to the assembly phase in which they are currently. Finally, this activity will feature a moderated debate by Rafael Cid, a journalist from Verin.

FOCO JUAN SOTO: POÉTICAS DO POLÍTICO

Juan Soto é un novo director de cinema colombiano que se formou como documentalista na Escola Internacional de Cine e Televisión (EICTV) de Cuba e que, na súa breve experiencia, xa conta con oito películas realizadas, entre as que sobresae Parábola do retorno, gañadora do premio NUMAX Exhibición no Festival Márgenes de 2016.

Juan Soto tamén se desempeña como montaxista, un aspecto importante no momento de abordar a súa obra, pois é a base para articular as imaxes que grava e os materiais de arquivo que recupera. Así, Soto dá forma a unha obra que se sustenta no desprazamento, creada en medio de residencias, visitas e percursos por festivais, todas elas viaxes que son rexistradas para crear un acervo persoal, que se encarga de entrelazar coas imaxes recuperadas de noticieiros, animacións, documentais e rexistros familiares.

Nas súas películas, as fronteiras entre documental, cinema doméstico, relato de viaxes e diario íntimo quedan expostas e, por conseguinte, transgredidas, deixando así en evidencia a presenza subxectiva que reivindica a memoria, a experiencia particular e o cotián.

Baixo esta premisa, a retrospectiva traza dúas liñas de interese que atravesaban as súas películas: o rexistro do íntimo e a revisión histórica. Estas liñas desenvólvense en dúas xornadas, nas que se exhibirán as películas de Soto e a súa discusión co director e cos investigadores colombianos que o acompañarán, enfocándose nos deprazamentos da mirada, co propósito de ver os seus tránsitos simbólicos a través de espazos imaxinados polo trazo da lembranza, descubrindo que o found footage opera como insumo, e a montaxe, como posibilidade de resignificación crítica.

Estes dous breves ensaios fan parte do que o autor denominou Miniaturas, e ambos os dous xorden de eventos que marcan fitos de relevancia histórica; no primeiro caso, para os cinéfilos, e no segundo, para os habitantes do Reino Unido.

3. Estudo de reflexos

Partiendo dunha casete de Video8 de 1996 e imaxes en HD tomadas en 2010, esta película amosa como mudou a mirada do director desde a primeira vez que tivo unha cámara nas súas mans ata hoxe. Unha viaxe que inicia en Colombia e remata no Reino Unido; unha viaxe do pasado ao presente, da familia ao individuo.

Día 2: Poéticas do político

Este documental é o resultado da estancia académica do director na EICTV, en Cuba, e rexistra o viaxe de (re)encontro co tío “Caliche”, exiliado en Montevideo hai máis de vinte anos por cuestións políticas. Por medio do diario filmado, o director realiza unha exploración intimista e coidadosa da vida do seu tío, coa intención de traelo ao presente. Este traballo convértese, así, nun xeito de mediación entre a distancia que xera o exilio do Caliche, e deixa en evidencia a modificación da mirada do director a través da cámara.

O título deste traballo marca un evento fundamental para a historia de Colombia: o inicio dos diálogos de paz coa guerrilla das Farc-EP, e por medio deste propón unha reflexión dalgúns eventos relacionados co conflito colombiano. Realizado en forma de collage a partir de imaxes de arquivo captadas en distintos lugares e épocas, o seu exercicio creativo funciona coma un tecido desigual realizado con materiais diversos, e sobrepoñendo un mesmo xesto histórico.

Wilson saiu da casa dos seus pais Medellín rumbo a Bogotá, pero nunca chegou ao seu destino. 30 anos despois e tras a sinatura do acordo de paz coas Farc-EP, Wilson intenta regresar desde o seu exilio en Londres para reencontrarse coa súa familia, que o cre morro. A traxectoria do avión debuxa unha parábola, pero Parábola do Retorno é tamén un poema de Porfirio Barba Jacob que antano lle declamaba o seu irmán de memoria.

JUAN SOTO FOCUS: POLITIC POETICS

Juan Soto is a young cinema director from Colombia who was trained as a documentary maker in the International School of Cinema and Television (EICTV) in Cuba. In his short experience he has already made 8 films, including Parábola del retorno (Parable of the Return), winner of the NUMAX Exhibition prize in Márgenes Festival in 2016.

Juan Soto also works in post-production, a very important aspect of his work, as it is the base on which to articulate the images that he films and the archive material that he uses. In this way, Soto masters work based on journeys, created amongst residences, visits and tours in festivals, trips which are all registered in order to create a personal heritage, which links images recuperated from news bulletins, animated films, documentaries and family materials.

In his films, the boundaries between documentary, domestic cinema, travel stories and intimate diary are shown and, therefore, transgressed, leaving in evidence the subjective presence which vindicates memory, singular experience and the everyday.

Under this premise, the retrospective traces two lines of interest which go through his films: the register of the intimate and historical revision. These lines will be developed in two sessions, in which Soto's films will be exhibited, and a debate with the director and two Colombian researchers who accompany him, focusing on the journey of the gaze, with the aim of watching his symbolic crossings through imagined spaces by the memories, discovering that the found footage can be the input, and the editing, a possibility for critical re-significance.

In memoriam Chris Marker (2012 – 3'38") and The Day Maggie Thatcher Died (2013 – 5'28")

These two brief essays are part of what the director has ascribed-Miniatures and both of them emerge from milestone events: in the first one, for the cinema lovers, and in the second one, for the United Kingdom inhabitants.

3. Study of reflections

77 mins., Colour, HD - TardeoTemprano Films, 2014 ©

Starting from a Video8 tape from 1996 and HD images filmed in 2010, this film shows how the gaze of the director has changed since the first time he used a camera until now. A trip which starts in Colombia and finishes in United Kingdom; a trip from the past to the present, from the family to the individual.

Day 2: Political poetics

This documentary is the result of the academic stay of the director in EICTV, in Cuba and registers the reuniontrip with uncle "Caliche", exiled in Montevideo for over twenty years for political reasons.

Through the filmed diary, the director makes an intimate and careful exploration of his uncle's life, with the aim to bring it to the present. This piece of work becomes, therefore, a type of mediation between the distance generated by Caliche's exile and it is evidence of the change in the gaze of the director through the camera.

2. Oslo, 2012

The title of this work marks a main event in the history of Colombia: the beginning of the peace dialogues with the Farc-EP "guerrilla", and through it he proposes a reflection on some events related to the Colombian conflict. It is made in a "collage" way from archive images filmed in different places and times, with its creative exercise working as an unequal texture made from different materials and superimposing the same historical gesture.

Wilson left his parents home in Medellín to go to Bogotá, but he never arrived at his destination. Thirty years later and after the signing of the peace agreement with the Farc-EP, Wilson tries to return from exile in London to encounter his family who believes he is dead. The journey by plane is a parable, but the Parábola del Retorno is also a poem from Porfirio Barba Jacob that his brother once recited from memory.
